"Warrior" Honored

"They do a heck of a job!" stated Raymond J. Tuers, Assistant Managing Editor of the Asbury Park Press, when referring to Manasquan High School's publication, the "Warrior".

During his presentation, 'How Are You Doing? Eight Tips to Improve Your High School Newspaper,' Tuers roasted and praised many shore area school publications. Junior Gail Mullery also received compliments for her timely and well written article "Candidates and Issues '84" featured in the November 1st issue of the "Warrior".

The 20th Annual High School Journalism Seminar, sponsored by the Asbury Park Press and Monmouth College was held on Friday, November 16. Thirty seven high schools, including St. Rose, CBA, and Point Pleasant Beach, attended the presentation at Monmouth College.

Students and advisors attended group sessions about advertising, sports, columns, reporting, editorials, photography, features, and graphics. The sessions were workshop classes presented by staff members of the Press, who spoke and held open forums about specific topics of running a newspaper.

Guest speaker Michael McManus, a syndicated columnist, spoke about "Why You Should Consider a Career in Journalism," to the student journalists. He mentioned how his career affects so many others. McManus's column, "The Northern Perspective" is published by more than 50 newspapers and it involves issues pertaining to the Northeast and Midwest.

Illustrator/cartoonist and sports writer for the Press, Bill King, demonstrated editorial art in his presentation. King described the use of simple symbols that can be used to stress a point.

"We don't fight with girls ... We wash before every meal ... We don't draw on walls ... We don't leave toys around ... Who is this 'we' character anyway?"

Best Dressed

"The food was great, and the models looked pretty sexy," stated Andrea Andalora in reference to the Buffet Fashion show held in the high school cafeteria.

The event was sponsored by the Key Club and once again was "very successful" commented Key Club President Ellen Sheehan.

The Fashion Show was sponsored by Brave New World of Point Pleasant. Fall Clothing by Ocean Pacific, Maui, Sun Deck, Levi, and Hobi were all examples of the fine fall sportswear displayed by the models.

"I pigged out," exclaimed Jim Hoos "on the Buffet at the show." Such dishes as Maccaroni: Ziti, Meatballs, and Pasta were enjoyed as the main courses of the buffet. Jello, cake, cookies and pie were for dessert and coffee and juice were the refreshments served.

Once again the turnout for the annual Buffet Fashion Show was outstanding as over 150 parents and students were present. The Key Club thanks everyone for their time and support.

Homecoming '84

This years Homecoming differed from those of the past years. The traditional Queen and her court were joined this year by a King and his court. To be voted King or Queen is a very prestigious position that every high school boy or girl appreciates.

Thanksgiving Eve kicked off the homecoming events with a parade down Main Street Manasquan where court members rode in convertibles. All court members were dressed handsomely and displayed themselves in a mannerly fashion.

Senior Brett Beliveau was estatic at being chosen first King in MHS history and thinks his partner Queen Kim Kology looked beautiful on her seventeenth birthday.

Thanksgiving day the Homecoming members were joined by the band, cheerleaders and flag squad during a gala half-time show. Queen Kim Kology was presented with a dozen long stem roses and King Brett Beliveau was given a gold money clip.

The Warrior staff extends its congratulations to the court members .

Mind Games

Anyone who likes to daydream, work with their hands, likes music, art, and drama are encouraged to join Olympics of the Mind.

Olympics of the Mind is a club in which anyone can compete. The idea is to construct and to solve scientific, mechanical, and theatrical problems and includes creative thinking problem solving.

Sessions for Olympics of the Mind are held each week after school and as competitions draw near they meet several times a week. Students do all the thinking themselves, advisors Mr. Jim Freda and Mrs. Kathy Stigliano will not do the thinking for them.

Last year the Olympics of the Mind group took first place in local competition by doing two problems and went on to the Regional competition and took third and fourth places.

Freda said that there are more members this year but they are still looking for interested students, especially freshman because a lot of seniors graduate each year.

Olympics of the Mind's first competition is the first week of February and anyone interested in joining should see Mr. Freda or Mrs. Stigliano and come to the meetings.

Student of the Month

"I was honored to receive this award, especially because I was chosen by my peers. It's nice to know that my classmates recognize me as a leader," stated November Student of the Month, Kerrie Wagner.

This Brielle resident, who was born on January 2, 1966 is 5'3" and weighs 108 pounds.

Kerrie presently takes Latin II, English IV, Calculus, Yearbook, Economics, French IV, and gym. Among these, her favorite subjects are French IV, and yearbook.

Her extracurricular activities in school include, Varsity Cross Country, Key Club Secretary, Kiwanis Honor Society, National Honor Society Vice-President, French Club, Latin Club, Varsity Golf team, and Student Council Representative.

Outside of school Kerrie participates in Junior Achievements, and many different golf tournaments. Kerrie also teaches CCD.

After graduation Kerrie wishes to attend Wake Forest, Boston College, and Dartmouth College.

"First to successfully complete college, and maybe become a corporate lawyer," is Kerrie's major goal in life.

Dracula Big Success

This past weekend, I attended the Drama Club's production of 'Dracula', and let me tell you that I was astounded with the performance. The play was extremely enjoyable, and interesting. The students involved in the play carried out their responsibilities like professionals.

The plot of the play was about Dracula, who was portrayed by Jeff Lunderburk, who had attacked Lucy Seward and taken her as a daily victim. Dr. Seward, Lucy's father, then called in an old friend, Professor Van Helsing, to help cure Lucy. From then on, the forces of good combined to fight the evil. In the end, Professor Van Helsing, Dr. Seward, and John Harker, Lucy's fiancée, kill Dracula and save Lucy's soul.

The play was full of suspense and drama. It kept my interest throughout and I wished I could have seen it again. If you missed the play, you missed a lot of excitement and enjoyable dramatics. I was one of the many people who were fortunate enough to experience the production, and I am glad of that. In my eyes the play was a big success!

rock review

Studio albums have been of immense appeal to the public. A studio album meant new songs, new ideas, and new moves towards progress. Usually, each new studio record means another step towards technical perfection. They are the highest quality recording a band can make, and we, the public, like them.

Live records are a little different. Live recordings are generally harder to make and the problems involved in producing a good quality live recording can sometimes seem insurmountable. There are quite a few semi-legendary bands who have written some classic songs, but for some reason they can't seem to produce a reputable live album. One example is The Who. The Who's only live recording thus far, Live At Leeds was a fine album from a musical point of view, but the recording was rather poor and their distinctive sound wasn't captured that well. They just happened to be one of those bands whose live sound could only be fully appreciated in person. Just for reference, their only other live LP will supposedly be released within this month.

On the other hand, a band like U2 can usually make a great live record. You can see this trait in their only one, Under A Blood Red Sky. Some of U2's greatest songs are on this album, and the recording itself, made last year at Red Rocks Amphitheatre in Colorado, is excellent. Classic tracks like "Gloria", "New Year's Day", "Party Girl", and "I Will Follow" are all included here. The mixture of U2's music and the cheers of the crowds is perfect and well-balanced, as is the usual musical perfection in which they performed their repertoire.

Other tracks include "Sunday Bloody Sunday", "11 O'Clock, Tick Tock", "40", and "The Electric Co.". This is an excellent live album and a great U2 cutting. Definite vintage material. Anyone who just appreciates live music by itself should take a glance at this record; it's well worth the effort.

Movie Review

Burns does it again. The third sequel of the trilogy has been released and the results are stupendous!

You may remember George Burns from OH GOD, Parts I and II, but he has added a new twist to the third part. In OH GOD, YOU DEVIL, Burns plays the protagonist and the antagonist, portraying not only God, but the Devil also.

The plot of the movie contains a young musician, who as a boy was put in the power of God. He has had an unsuccessful career in music and to make it in the business, he sells his soul to the Devil. After tasting a little success, he starts missing his wife and his former lifestyle. He asks the Devil if he can have his soul back, and his request is refused. Then God meets the Devil for a showdown; the winner of the faceoff will get control of the musician. If you want to know the rest, go see the movie.

Overall, the movie was fast-moving and full of fun. Several times I found myself chuckling uncontrollably. It was a light hearted movie with a good story behind it, and if you enjoy the Burns' humor, I recommend you see OH GOD, YOU DEVIL.

I give the movie a thumbs up rating!!!

Mystery Students

This issue's male mystery student was born on August 28, 1967 in Rahway NJ. He currently resides in Brielle where he has been living for 15 years.

This junior is presently involved in Squan soccer and track, and the recording studio club. His hobbies are skiing, and ice skating, but as far as future plans go, he plans some day to be rich and famous.

His favorites include women, fast cars, pizza, the music of Bruce Springsteen and the E-Street Band, the songs Glamorous Life by Shiela E., and Dancing in the Dark by Bruce, the show 'The A-Team', the movies 'Hot doggin'' and 'Breakin'', the name Johnny, the saying 'Johnny Oates', and the subjects woodshop and electronic music/recording studio. He feels the best thing ever invented was the car.

His dislikes include lima beans, heavy metal groups- the Scorpions and Quiet Riot, and the song 'Bang your Head' by the latter. According to him the worst thing ever invented was homework. In addition, obnoxious girls aggravate him more than anything else.

This owner of a 1967 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme would like some day to own a Z-28 Camaro. He likes his Athletic Ability best about himself, and when choosing a girl, he looks for both beauty and a desirable personality.

This brown-haired, brown-eyed student is 5'5" tall and weighs 125 pounds. He has five brothers and a sister. His advice to others is, 'Don't spit into the wind.'

CIKYEM RALTUPLE

This issue's female mystery student was born on November 29, 1967 at Jersey shore medical center in Neptune, NJ. She now resides in Spring Lake where she has been living for 16 years.

This future actor/performer is presently involved in Chorus, band, Drama club, and the recording studio club. Her hobbies are singing, acting, and playing her instruments (piano, flute, piccolo).

This junior's favorites include jazz and the blues, bagels, roast beef, the music of Adrian Belew, David Bowie, and Simon and Garfunkel; the songs 'Lover's Lullabye', 'Feelin' Groovy', and 'Changes'; the saying 'Cut me a proverbial break', the names elise and David; the movies 'Hair' and 'The Big Chill'; the shows 'Cheers' and 'All my Children'; and the subjects German and Spanish. She feels the best thing ever invented was the piano. When asked the best thing that ever happened to her, she replied, 'I have not yet lived a fulfilled life, therefore I have not yet experienced the best thing.'

Her dislikes include seafood, heavy metal in general, and specifically Twisted Sister and Black Sabbath. Other dislikes are the movie 'Purple Rain', the shows 'Different Strokes' and 'Facts of Life' and the names Gene and Pauline. Dentist office music greatly aggravates her and she feels the worst thing ever invented was the alarm clock.

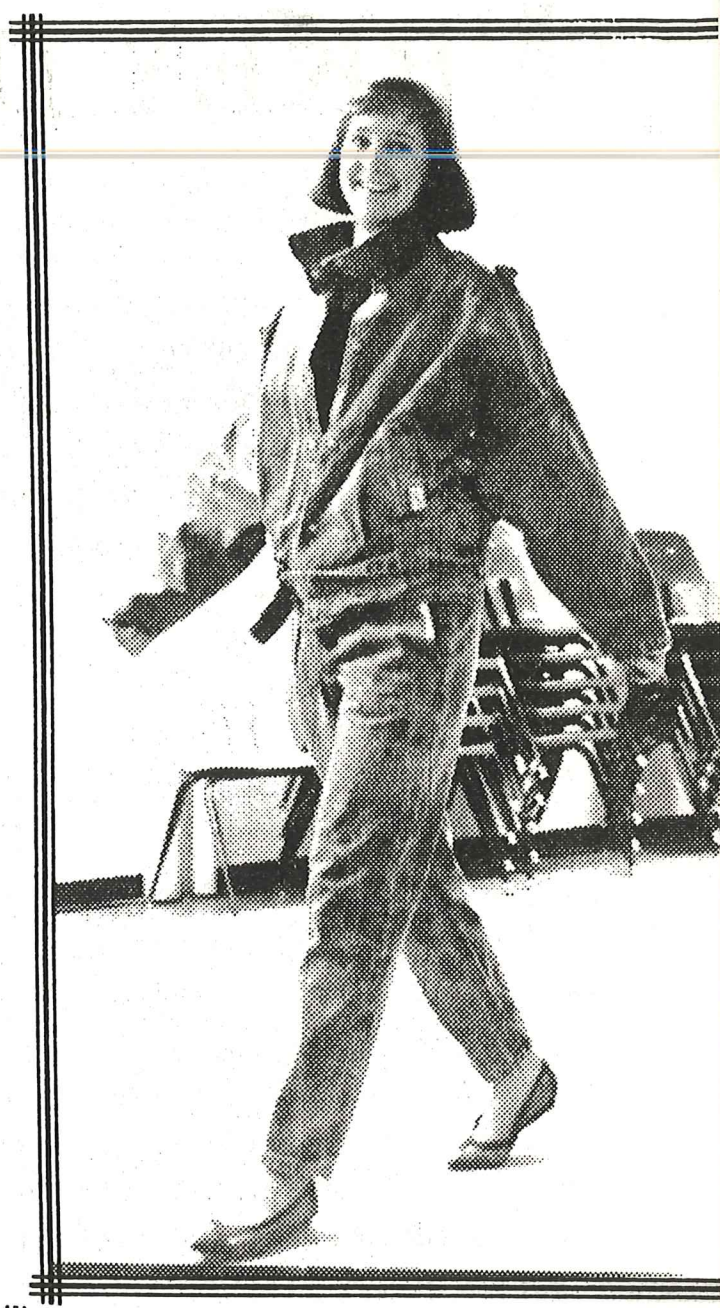

This future owner of a B'W likes her musical ability best about herself, although she would like to change her fingernails. She looks for nice teeth first in a guy, and her favorite place to go on a date is to see a theatrical production.

This 5'4" brown-eyed, brown-haired student has 4 brothers and four sisters. Her advice to others is, 'Make your transition now, or the chance may rapidly fade.'

Rumor has it...

Teen-age girls dream about being models. Boys pretend they are rock stars playing air guitars. No doubt that's why every move of models and rock star couples seem to make the press. Currently together are Christie Brinkley and Billy Joel, Jerry Hall and Mick Jagger, Kelly Emberg and Rod Stewart, Patti Hansen and Keith Richards, Nancy Hunter and John Oates and rumor has it, Paulina Porizkova and Rick Ocasek of the Cars.

Known as rock's first couple, Jerry Hall and Mick Jagger are the unmarried parents of eight-month-old Elizabeth Scarlett. They have been together seven years despite a much publicized split. Hall admits there are groupies to contend with because women would give anything to go out with Jagger. Hall claims to have given some women a "good kick in the shins" if they are falling all over Mick.

Patti Hansen and Keith Richards were brought together by Jerry Hall at Richards 36th birthday party. They married four years later.

Rock Star Rod Stewart is presently going out with Cover Girl Kelly Emberg. Over a year ago, Stewart saw Emberg in a film called Portfolio, about the modeling industry. Stewart's agents tracked her down and he called her for a date. He even flew in from London for it. Now Stewart is on tour and Emberg is hopping planes to see him. She is involved in a singing career with a group called Bamm. Stewart had nothing to do with the start of her singing but thinks it's great. Kelly found this band on her own.

Emberg claims that living in the limelight is "not that bad as people think." They go out to dinner and no one bothers them. Stewart is the only rock star Emberg has dated and hopes it is the last, "because I love him," she stated.

Christie Brinkley and Billy Joel are now engaged. Brinkley is the country's top paid model, and Joel just finished a tour this summer. Brinkley has appeared in Joel's video Uptown Girl and they are a favorite topic of the press.

Brinkley is not the only model to make it in the video scene. Paulina Porizkova appeared in the Cars' video Drive. She was rumored to be dating lead singer Rick Ocasek, but Porizkova feels that it was just for publicity. Paulina, 19, thinks she is too young for Ocasek and hasn't dated anyone over 30.

She prefers someone not famous at all. But thinks Tim Hutton, who directed the Cars' video was cute and feels he is more appropriate.

Well, that sums up a few of the "latest" Hollywood couples! ! !

CHAPMAN RESIGNS

On Monday, November 12, Manasquan Varsity Head Football Coach, Gary Chapman told his team that 1984 would be his final year at the helm of the Warriors. Players and coaches that were present were shocked at the suddenness of the announcement. Chapman's resignation raised many questions. But those being asked most often are why did he quit and who will be next in line for the job.

Chapman explained that the lack of public support, as well as the school's inability to make the program more attractive, were the major reasons for his decision. The latter could certainly seem true when one sees the declining participation in football. It could be blamed on decreasing student enrollment as the determining factor, but it's hard to believe it could curb up to 40 players from the roster. When I talked to athletes in other varsity sports they felt that the school could, in fact, make football, as well as their individual sports, more exciting.

Many people, including students, claim that the resignation was the result of tremendous outside pressure and the fact that Chapman could no longer make a winner with what talent he had and thought it was time to move on.

Chapman's arrival at Manasquan came when head coach Jack Hawkins called it quits, after many successful and colorful seasons directing the Big Blue. Chapman left his head job at St. John Vianny where he too enjoyed many successful seasons to fill in Squan's vacancy. In his first few years as the leader of Squan it seemed as though both Gary Chapman and Manasquan High School football would continue their winning ways.

As of late, though, the Warriors record wasn't what Chapman or the players had hoped for, and more importantly, what the fans had come to expect. The criticism had gotten to be too much for the coach, who moved the Warriors home bench from the side of the stands to the opposite side near the tower a few years ago solely to get away from the fans who became a headache for Chapman, many outsiders believe. Though public opinion might not have been favorable towards the former coach, the players that I have talked to, past and present, had, on the whole, nothing but respect for Chapman.

When asked what stood out in their minds about their coach, Senior Matt Clark said it was his "unyielding commitment to excellence" and his "giving everybody a fair shot in proving themselves on the football field", according to senior Quarterback Mike Gerraty. All players I talked to thought that Chapman would coach again and do well in the process.

All this leads to the big question of who is going to lead the Warriors into battle next year. Speculation and wild predictions have been commonplace with everyone giving their pick and supporting evidence. Among those names being tossed around are former head coach Jack Hawkins, who is widely liked and who will have son Ty controlling the offense. Varsity Baseball coach Jake Landfried is also being mentioned. Assistant coach Walt Edick,

Squan Upsets Piners, 10 - 0

"We did it for Sull," stated senior linebacker and captain Michael Vitale, in reference to Squan's Shore Conference Class B South victory over the Lakewood Piners, 10-0 at the Big Blue's home field.

The score stood at 3-0 from the closing moments of the opening quarter until a controversial TD in the final two minutes.

Michael Mahady, a junior kicker, was true with a 31-yard, first quarter field goal after a Piner turnover.

As it turned out, Mahady's kick was crucial. Everything the Piners did hinged on being behind 3-0 from the first period onward.

"It was a defensive battle," stated defensive end Matt Clark. The Big Blue held the Piners to only six yards rushing the entire game.

"So much for the great Turner Pierce. That just proves nobody runs against Squan, nobody!" exclaimed defensive back Tony Jones.

The Big Blue got an insurance touchdown in the waning moments on a play that upset the Lakewood players and staff.

Elliot Clark ran a draw play up the middle with 1:37 remaining in the game. As he hit the goal line, the ball squirted loose although he was untouched.

Clark followed the loose ball into the endzone, backed up by at least three Piners. Clark recovered the ball to end the game and defeat the Lakewood Piners, 10-0.

"I can't wait for turkey day. Look out Boro we want to feast. But most of all, I wanna EAT!" exclaimed the hungry Al Hilla.

Junior kicker Michael Mahady splits the uprights on a 31-yard field goal to help Squan overcome Piners, 10-0.

VARSITY BOOTERS LOSE IN STATE TOURNAMENT

Squan's varsity booters were ousted from state tournament play by North Brunswick, 3-1 as the Big Blue took a road trip to the Brunswicks two weeks ago.

"We looked poor against North Brunswick, we lacked intensity," commented goalie "Raul" Cadigan. "This killed us right from the opening whistle," added Cadigan in reference to the Warriors 2-0 deficit at halftime.

Late in the third quarter Squan fought back desperately, and Lance Simek brought Squan right back into the game as he scored to make the score 2-1.

In the fourth period Squan was on the attack but on a transition play Brunswick brought on a counterattack and tallied to end Squan hopes of a state crown.

The Big Blue finished the season with a 9-9-2 record and 5-5 in class B-South. The highlights of the season were a 3-2 victory over Monsignor Donovan, and overtime victories over Central and Howell.

The leading scorers for the Warriors were Lance Simek, Matt Herrmann and Pat Honey. Six out of Squan's 9 losses came to the Shore's top team, Lakewood twice, Wall twice and CBA twice. Squan managed to sneak into the state tournament where they advanced to the second round, and later lost to North Brunswick.

CHAPMAN... continued

former rival and head coach John Amabile have been speculated. Former assistant Eric Scheidt has received recognition also with senior captain Mike Vitale commenting that Scheidt "taught me discipline on the field and made me a better man off it. The man deserves nothing but praise and respect and would make a superb head coach." Lastly, Clark stated that the "School should make the necessary concessions so that coach Chapman could not turn the job down."

The news of Chapman's resignation was quick and sudden but the repercussions will be deep and lasting. Good luck to both Gary Chapman and the Manasquan High School Varsity Football team in the future.

DOLPHINS AND MARINO ON TOP

The Miami Dolphins and their "quick strike" offence led by all pro quarterback Don Marino are having a season most teams dream about. The Dolphins are currently 11-1 with Marino on top of the NFL in passing touchdowns and percentage.

Marino's first start was last year against the Buffalo Bills. His first two NFL completions were to the Bills' defense. Coach Don Shula had faith in his rookie, as Marino went on to throw four touchdowns that game. He went on to throw 20 touchdowns in the '83 season and became all pro. The Dolphins are 18-1 when Marino calls the signals.

The 1984 season did not start out well for the rookie sensation. Marino had orthoscopic surgery on his knee and spent most of the preseason on the bench.

Coach Shula was concerned about Marino's performance against their tough opening day rival, the Washington Redskins. All questions were answered fast. Marino threw for 311 yards and five TD's.

One reason Marino is having a record breaking season is his wide receivers, Mark "Super" Duper and rookie Mark Clayton, joined by veteran Nat Moore. These three receivers, along with Marino are the heart of the Dolphins offense.

Even though Miami hasn't gone a perfect season, one thing is sure, if Marino stays healthy he will rewrite the NFL record books.

GOODEN ROOKIE OF THE YEAR

It's finally official. The Mets' Dwight Gooden is the 1984 National League Rookie of the Year. That was the big news in baseball Monday, November 12th. It would have been bigger news if he was not selected.

Gooden who was 17-9 with a 2.60 era and a major league leading 276 strikeouts, wound up with 23 out of 24 first place votes.

Gooden is the first teenager to win this award and fourth Met to take Rookie of the Year honors. Pitchers Jon Matlack and Tom Seaver won prior to Darral Strawberry's selection last year.

SANDBERG NATIONAL LEAGUE MVP

Ryne Sandberg was named winner of the national league's most valuable player award last Tuesday, when he joined pitcher Rick Sutcliffe, Cy Young Winner, to give the NL fast champion Cubs a sweep in awards this season!

Sandberg, 25, and only in his third season in the major league, had a fantastic season. He batted .314, slammed 34 doubles, 19 triples, 19 homeruns and drove in 84 runs. Sandberg also stole 32 bases and was an excellent second baseman.

Met's Keith Hernandez was a distant second and Tony Gwynn finished third in the MVP balloting.

SUPER BRAT STRIKES AGAIN

John McEnroe, the bad boy of the tennis scene, was very nauty last Monday, November 5th in Stockham, Sweden.

McEnroe took time off from playing the $315,000 Stockholm Open to blast the International Tennis Federation about the Davis Cup's schedule for the 1985 season. He called the ITF "a bunch of idiots."

McEnroe also displayed his temper on the court defeating Anders Jyrryd, 1-6, 7-6, 6-2. It was a vintage McEnroe temper. McEnroe hit a spectator with a ball, called an umpire "a jerk" and smashed a bottle of water court side. This incident cost McEnroe $2,100 putting him over the limit set by ITF of 7,500.

The Man That Ran

"I'm surprised how well I feel," commented Girls Varsity Basketball Coach Richard Johnson, in reference to his completion of the Jersey Shore Marathon on Sunday November 11.

Johnson finished the marathon with a time of 3 hours 35 minutes and 55 seconds. At the half-way point his time was 1:35 where Johnson felt his hamstrings start to cramp which slowed down his pace but he closed in on his 3:30 goal.

Besides Johnson's tight hamstrings he felt fine, but was disappointed in his finishing time and thought he could have done approximately 3:15. Johnson didn't mind the inclement rains and humidity, but commented on the strong winds which slowed him down throughout the second half of the race.

Johnson has been in training since April of this year, but didn't start training seriously until August when thoughts of a triathlon and marathon set in. Johnson does not abide by a strict training schedule, although he tries to jog six miles a night with one long run of 12-18 miles.

Johnson has also completed a shortened version of a triathlon and hopes to do another marathon, although his goal is the full triathlon.
