Section 3-Selection. Candidates must be members of the sophomore or junior classes and meet the following requirements:

Scholarship. Candidates must have a minimum scholastic cumulative average of 3.5 or higher at the end of 5 semesters (juniors) or 3 semesters (sophomores). All candidates who meet this minimum scholastic requirement are eligible for membership consideration and will receive a letter stating their eligibility. Students enrolled in remedial or compensatory education courses are not eligible. Membership shall then be considered based upon the service, leadership, and character of the candidate.

Service. All candidates are required to submit a correctly completed activity sheet. Activities should include proof of school, church, and community involvement. Paid employment is not considered a service activity. All activities must be verified by the adviser/employer concerned. The final activity sheet submitted will be used by the faculty council to assist them in membership selection. Failure to submit an activity sheet will automatically drop the candidate from further consideration. The committee will look for a minimum of 25 activity points.

Leadership and Character. A list of candidates meeting the minimum academic requirements shall be submitted to selected faculty members. The faculty shall then rate the students on a scale of one (1) POOR to four (4) EXCELLENT in each of these two areas. The faculty rating will be used to assist the faculty council in making its final selection.

Final Determination of Membership. Along with the candidate's scholastic average, an average of the three ratings for service, leadership, and character are considered for final determination of membership which will be made by majority vote of the faculty council.

Senior Selection. Members of the senior class who have obtained a 3.5 or higher cumulative average at the end of 6 semesters, will receive eligibility letters and be selected through the same process as junior candidates.

Outstanding Student Honored

This years Honorary Bausch&Lomb Science Award winner is Spring Lake resident, Daniel Pearce.

The Bausch&Lomb Science Award is presented each year to a twelfth grader, who has shown outstanding achievement, good character, and superior intellectual promise in the study of science.

The Bausch&Lomb Science Award is very prestigious and its reward is two-fold. The recipient is presented a bronze medalion at graduation; he or she is also eligible to compete for a four- year scholarship to the University of Rochester in New York.

Award winner, Daniel Pearce's present courses here at MHS are European History, (which is his favorite) English IV, Electronics, Physics, Calculus, and Architectural Drafting. He plans to major in Electrical Engineering at college.

Pearce has been accepted to Rutgers and Tulane University. Tulane is where he is presently bound for if he's not contacted by Duke first. He's not really considering University of Rochester. He says, "It's too cold!"

Pearce's favorite hobbies include swimming and skiing and he was a member of the MHS Cross Country team. When asked how it felt to be awarded the Bausch&Lomb Science Award, Pearce said, "I had no idea I was going to get it! It feels good!"

"The special significance of this award is that it recognizes the senior student at our high school who has attained the highest scholastic standing in science," commented Principal Jeffrey Osborn.

A certain set of criteria is used for awarding this honor.

1. A search of the student's academic record in science courses and the grades earned.
2. Consultation with the guidance counselors and determined class rank.
3. Nomination by members of Science Staff who offer professional judgments regarding the quality of work done by the student and the level of performance in science courses.

4. Discussion among the members of the science department, followed by a poll. Each member of the faculty is asked to vote "yes", "no", or "abstain". The student with the most "yes" votes is the award winner.

Pearce was presented a certificate at the February 11TH Board of Education meeting and his picture appeared in the area paper, "The Coast Star".

The careful selecting of this award was supervised by Math&Science department head, Dr. Charles D. Hayne in coordination with the Science faculty.

The Warrior Staff extends its congratulations to Daniel Pearce on his great achievement.

Key Club News

BOWLING

The Key Club recently ran a Key Club-Faculty bowling day at Hiway 35 Lanes and many people took advantage of this opportunity. About 40 students and faculty members participated in an enjoyable afternoon of friendly bowling. The faculty line-up boasted such great names as; Revel, Shuttleworth, Osborne, Emmons, Henderson, Marklein, Ward, Daly, Little, Zeller, McCormack, and Lempa. This activity went over very well and everyone had a good time, even the losers.

UPCOMING

In a few weeks, the Key Club members will volunteer some time to help paint the warehouse of the new food bank in Spring Lake. This activity is keeping with the International Key Club theme, "Manhours for Mankind."

In April, the Key Club is planning to hold their annual semi-formal dance at the Barclay in Belmar. Also in April, Andrew Geissler, Brett Beliveau, and Mike Ford will be attending the New Jersey Key Club convention.

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

" I am very honored and happy to have been selected by my fellow students to receive the Student of the Month award for February," stated Cindy McKnight.

This Sea Girt resident, who was born on September 5, 1967 is 5'7 and weighs 105 pounds.

Cindy presently takes Trigonometry, A.P English, Pascal Programming, Psychology II , Writing for College, and French III. Among these her favorite class is Trigonometry.

Her extracurricular activities in school include, Captain of Varsity Tennis Team, Key Club, National Honor Society, Art Club, Kiwanis Honor Society, and Varsity Softball.

Throughout Cindy's tennis career at Manasquan High School she has received many honors. She was selected to both the All-State and the All-Shore tennis teams along with winning a Tennis Hall of Fame award. Also, when Cindy was a sophomore she received honorable mention for the Ocean County Teen Arts. Along with keeping her grades up high enough to be on the honor roll, she also was rewarded a Board of Education award.

Out of school Cindy enjoys playing tennis, swimming, running, bike riding, and beaching it.

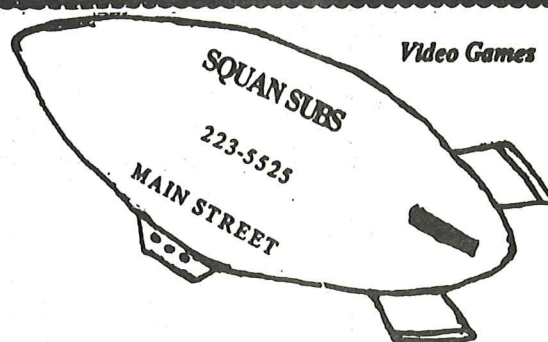

After graduation Cindy wishes to attend Boston College, Fairfield University, or William and Mary where she plans to major in Business/ Marketing with a minor in Fine Art.

" To be successful and happy in whatever I decide to do," is Cindy's major goal in life. Her advice to others is, " Give everything you have to whatever you undertake."

Missing Children: An Epidemic

Have you ever been homesick? Have you ever wanted to just go home and be back in your own bed and warm house? All of us have most likely experienced this, but what about the 1.8 million children who are missing each year? How do they feel?

Although 90% of those missing run away and return home within a few days, 100,000 are abducted in custody disputes and 20,000 to 50,000 are snatched by strangers and are never to be seen again. Roughly 10% of these youngsters are sexually abused. Even children 5 or 6 years old are being used and sold in pornography dealing.

Many stolen children never see their parents again. In a custody dispute or when a divorced parent "steals" the child, he is returned home only 10% of the time.

When a child is Kidnapped by a stranger, 80% of the children are murdered within two days of their abduction. Missing children are usually under 12 but often are up to 17 years old, especially when strangers kidnap them.

In the state of New Jersey alone, 500 people are reported missing each month. Out of this number, 72% of those people are juveniles. That is 360 people out of 500 are under 18.

Victims of kidnappings or disappearance for an unknown reasons are not from specific areas, race or class. They range from the wealthy to the poor to anyone in between.

Carnivals, fairs, shopping malls and grocery stores, run the risk of losing your child in a crowd. With so many people pushing and shoving, a young persons hand can easily be detached from yours. There is nothing more frightening for a child to lose his parents or guardian in a mass of stranger.

Of the cases reported, people claimed their children were abducted walking to or from school, in neighborhood playgrounds, in their own backyards and even in the delivery room of a hospital.

In 1980, the Parental Kidnapping Prevention Act was passed. It authorizes the Federal Parent Locator Service to locate children in connection with civil and criminal cases.

Another Law in progress is the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act which entitles parents- whether they have custody of their child or not - to have access to school records. If a school refuses the state and Federal Government can cut off all aid to the institution.

If a child is returned or finds his way home the trauma can lead to family tension and psychological problems for the child. Parents become very over-protective which could cause conflict and pain. But more important there is the child, who is literally scared for life. This trauma could take years to get over. The child no doubtly experiences nightmares and finds it difficult to get along with his peers.

Culprits of this horrifying crime have been child care workers, teachers, police officers, and social service workers. There is no way one can be at their child's side 24 hours a day, unless their an infant, but maybe these precautions may help one become more aware.

- * Never leave a small child alone in a grocery cart or in the car-even for a minute.
- * Be sure your child's day-care center or school will not release the child to anyone but you or someone you designate.
- * Warn your children never to go anywhere with anyone- even with a friend- without your permission.
- * Tell children to call out and run away from any stranger who bothers them
- * Warn your children not to let anyone know when they are home alone.
- * Teach your children his full name, address, and phone number. Show them how to make a long distance or collect call.
- * Know your child's blood type and have on file a set of the child's finger prints, current pictures, dental records and hair sample.

Students Visit Nuclear Plant

Thirty Manasquan High School students under the direction of Chemistry teacher Robert Lempa and Environmental studies teacher Richard M. Trimble had the unique opportunity to tour the Three Mile Island Nuclear Power Plant facility in Middletown, Pa. on Tuesday, March 5. Three Mile Island was the site of the most serious accident ever to occur at a commercial nuclear power plant in the U.S. and the consequences of that accident are still being seen in the jeopardized future of the nuclear power industry today.

The students were taken to the Visitors' Center, logged in, given hard hats and goggles, and then listened to speakers and a film discuss the functions of the plant and the nature of the accident that crippled TMI-2's reactor in March of 1979.

The students were then given an elaborate security clearance and taken to the island itself for a remarkable tour of the plant and grounds. Students were allowed inside the TMI-2's Central Room, Generator Room, and were able to view on the television monitors the ongoing process involved in the $1 billion cleanup of the plant.

The students were enthusiastic to not only have learned much about the nuclear power industry, but also to have seen directly the site of such an historic event. The tour guides were candid and open in response to several poignant questions about the accident, the cleanup, and what is being done today.

"Love" Those Courts

At the last Manasquan Board of Education meeting, the proposal to construct three tennis courts was decided as final.

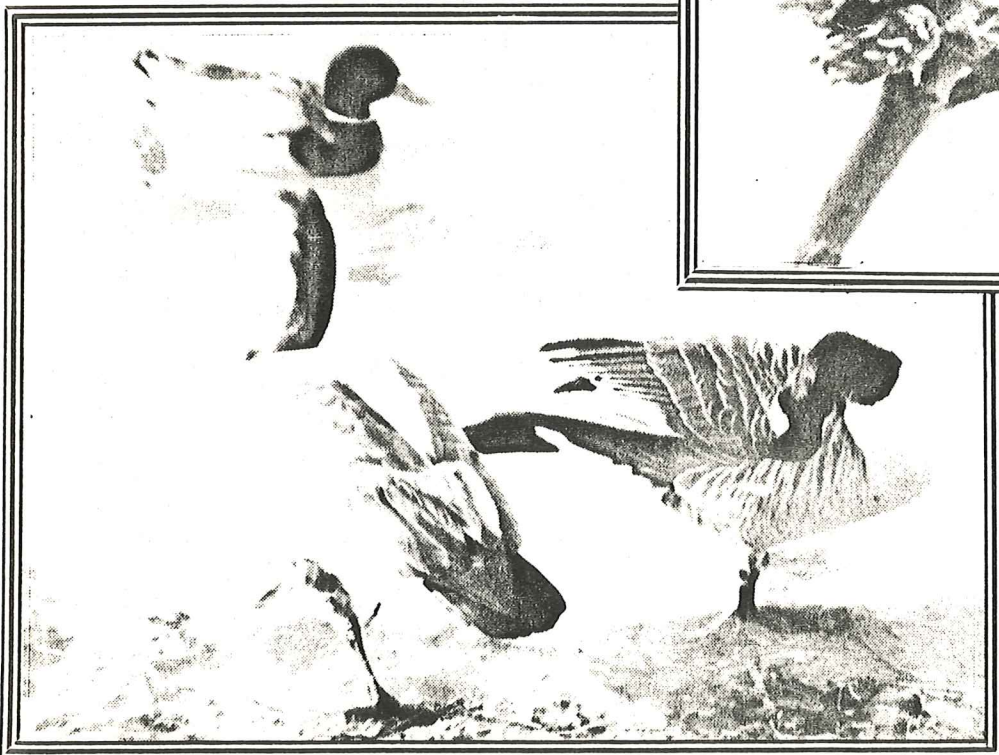

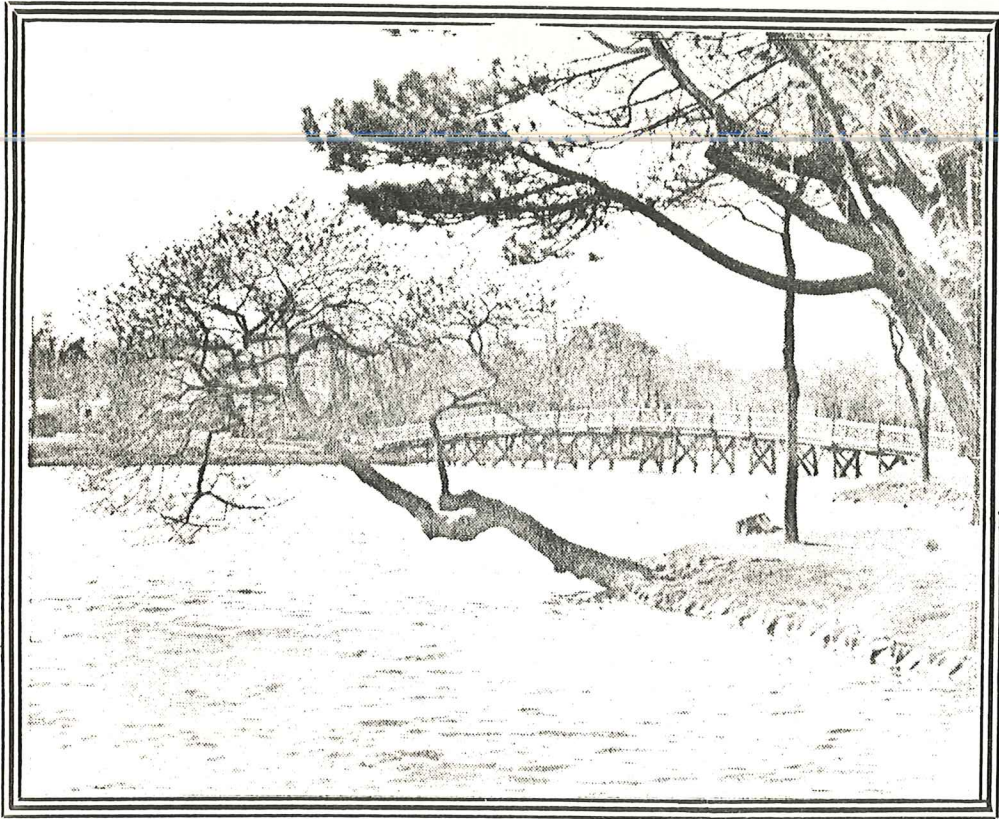

Three courts will be located on the southeast corner of high school grounds at Broad Street and Atlantic Avenue. This location was chosen because the convenience of the parking facilities adjacent to the area.

The girls and boys tennis teams will have access to these courts along with the gym classes. No longer will the tennis teams have to use other community courts which have caused problems as far as reserving court time.

"It is somewhat of a disappointment to think that after participating on the Manasquan High School tennis team for four years that the school has finally realized the importance of tennis courts!" stated senior Pam Johnson.

Now that the tennis teams will be playing there matches on school grounds there should be more of a turn out hopefully from the student body.

rock review

The Grammy Awards have come and gone, and so has Michael Jackson, thank God. Aren't we all getting sick of this guy's lack of talent, but equally vast amount of (undeserved) fame and recognition? Too modest to even show up at the Grammys, Mike still managed to win something! That's disgusting. What did he win this time? Well, he actually got the Grammy Award for Best Video Album of 1984 with The Making of Thriller. Now, correct me if I'm wrong, but since when does a documentary on the making of a video qualify as a video album? It contained absolutely no music, which in my opinion is pretty essential in making an album, but one thing it did do is manage to bore us (nearly to death) with unintelligible information that is about as useful as studying the mating habits of lonely field mice. All of this insanity aside, I would like to apologize to the real winners of this award, that is Ric Ocasak and The Cars, for not receiving it. The Heartbeat City album was simply a stunning collection of video excellency and is well deserving of at least a Grammy.

So anyhow, onto other things. Didn't Tina Turner do well? How many girls want to look that good at 47? She won the awards for Best Female Vocalist, Best Comeback Artist, and Song Of The Year with "What's Love Got To Do With It?" Of course, the Boss himself, Bruce Springsteen picked up the Best Male Vocalist award, but Prince, his 1984 arch-rival, didn't do as well as people had expected. Although he won Best Performance In A Rock Movie (or something like that), he didn't win anything else. Incidentally, if Bruce hadn't won anything at all, most of the New Jerseyans at the Awards would've rioted the joint, so his win was sort of predictable. In other departments, Cyndi Lauper won a Grammy for something, and so did hard-rockin' Leonard Bernstein. So that's that.

On the other side of the Awards, there were some very special guests giving them out, including Police guitarist Andy Summers, The two female musicians from The Revolution, and one of the best new artists of 1984, Julian Lennon.

To finish, I'll say congratulations to Lionel Richie for Best Album Of The Year (Can't Slow Down) and to the entire Grammy Awards sponsorship staff for presenting an excellent show. Nice job and see you next year.

Movie Review

HEAVEN HELP US is a new movie starring Matt Dillon's younger brother, Kevin. Kevin imitates his older brother by playing the role of a tough guy. In this sometimes funny movie, he talks and even looks like Matt.

The movie is about an all boy Catholic school that is terrorized by an extremely strict teacher. This teacher uses brute force to keep control of his class. At the end, this teacher is given the boot and replaced by a younger more relaxed instructor.

Although this is the main plot, there is an underlying plot that consists of Dillon trying to make friends with a geek and a girl from another school. In the end he becomes friends with the geek but gives up trying for the girl.

All in all, the movie was unbelievably terrible. After seeing this movie, I would like to say, "Heaven help, HEAVEN HELP US." Take my advice and don't waste $4 on this movie.

MISSING CHILDREN CONTD...

The best known group, to date, for finding missing children is "Child Find", which was founded by Gloria Yerkovich in New Paltz, New York.

The problem of missing children is at such epidemic proportions that pictures and descriptions of some youngsters are even shown on milk cartons in hopes of being found. Everyone feels that "it can't happen to me", but that is what 1.8 million other families thought too!

"Some of the information used for this article was taken from the Asbury Park Press and Time Magazine."

Mystery Students

This issue's male mystery student was born at Point Pleasant hospital on September 15, 1969. He currently resides in Brielle where he has been living for 15 years.

This freshman is currently involved in Squan Basketball and office detention. His hobbies are girls, models and eating; and he plans in the future to record a hit with his band.

His favorites include pizza, girls, synthesizers, the music of Duran Duran and Run-DMC, the songs "Rio" and "It's like that"; the movies "Star Wars" and "Star Trek", the shows "Bill Cosby" and "The Dukes of Hazard", the saying, "OK, don't say Hi", and the subjects gym and Career Awareness. He feels the best thing that ever happened to him was graduating from the 8th grade, and the best things ever invented were girls.

His dislikes include cafeteria food, the music of the Bee Gees and Frankie Goes to Hollywood; the song "Hello Jimmy Robinson", the movies "Spaceship" and "The Verdict"; the shows "WKRP in Cincinnati" and "Chips"; and the names Jak, Mack, Rambo, and Droopy. In addition, smoke in the bathroom greatly aggravates him and he feels the worst thing ever invented was staying back.

This future owner of a Dominarri XGS likes nearly everything about himself, although he would like to improve his ability to succeed in School. He looks for quietness, kindness, and maturity first in a girl, and his favorite place to go on a date is to the movies.

This 5'12", 150 Lt. student, who has dark brown hair and eyes has two brothers: Ben, 8, and Mike, 14. His advice to others is, "Take a chill pill and relax at will."

This issue's female mystery student was born on December 2, 1968 in Jacksonville, Florida. She currently resides in Manasquan where she has been living for two years.

This freshman who was a football manager, enjoys cheering and shopping for clothes in her spare time. Her future plans are to pursue a career in acting.

Her favorites include Mexican food, hamburgers, the music of Chicago, Duran Duran, and the Police; the songs "You're all I need" and "You're my inspiration"; the movies "The Outsiders" and "The breakfast Club"; the shows "Dynasty" and "Fame"; the names Nicole and Bill; and the subject Spanish. In addition, she can often be heard saying, "Oh, God!! You really are serious!!!". She feels the best thing ever invented was the telephone and the best thing that ever happened to her was getting an "A" on her report card.

Her dislikes include steak, asparagus, the music of the Bee Gees, Culture Club and Billy Idol; the songs "Girls just wanna have fun" and "Rebel Yell", the movies "Star Wars" and "Jaws 3"; the shows "Dallas" and "Kids Incorporated" and the names Harold and Bertha. Hair in the cafeteria salad aggravates her, and she feels the worst thing ever invented was the alarm clock.

This future owner of a Mercades 450SLE likes her eyes best about herself, although she would like to heighten her stature. She looks for a nice personality first in a boy, and her favorite place to go on a date is out to dinner and to a movie.

This Blue-eyed blonde has one sister: Dawn, who is 18. Her advice to others is, "Don't eat the cafeteria food."

SYMPOSIUM

Now that the seat belt law is in effect do you plan on wearing your seat belt?

1. Po Rodriguez - YES! Most definetly.
2. Fran McNamara- Only if I get pulled over then I'll put it on.
3. Darren Yorke- It depends on if I'm in a hurry or not.
4. Pat Connolly- I think it will be very inaffective because it is not strict enough.
5. Alice Neary - No, it's a waste of time to put it on.
6. Mary Beth Murray - Yes, because seat belts save lives.

B-BALL Wrap Up

SQUAN RIPS CASEYS, 69-57

The Big Blue finished their season off on a high note as the Caseys of Red Bank Catholic fell to Squan 69-57, over the Winter vacation.

Paced by scorers John Graver and Chris Edwards the Big Blue's second half rally from being down as much as ten, sparked the victory. In the first half Squan fell behind early, but managed to fight back. Todd Jenkins also helped out in the scoring department as the Big Blue rolled in there season finale.

WRAP UP

"I feel the progress of the players to perform as a team was excellent, considering we started all underclassmen. Our 9-13 and 6-6 conference records were satisfactory," commented Head Coach Pete Anderson in reference to his year at the helm of the Big Blue Basketball squad.

When asked what goals do you have for next season, Anderson mentioned, "If the players work on their weaknesses throughout the off-season we could challenge for a conference crown and compete in the shore conference and state tournaments."

Squans 9-13 record may not be fantastic but the Big Blues schedule was as hard as they come, facing Asbury Park, Lakewood and Monsignor Donovan all twice. Also meeting up with Toms River North and South, two of the top teams in Ocean County.

The Big Blue's all Junior starting line-up will give experience needed next season while Junior Varsity "up and comings" hope to fill a vacancy needed to become a successful team in the future.
